Referendum Saturday Seeks Separation for Wilmot H. School Dist.

Believe New Action May End Struggle Over Location

Voters in the Wilmot High school district will go to the polls Saturday for another referendum.

This time they will be asked to decide whether the order of the Kenosha county school committee issued May 25, 1949 annexing all territory in Kenosha county, Wis., west of U. S. Rte. 41, not in any other high school district, to the present district of Wilmot, Wis., be disapproved and the newly created district dissolved.

The referendum was called when a petition was presented by the citizen's committee, supporters of the Wilmot High school in the Wilmot, Silver Lake, and Twin Lakes areas.

The separation of the old area from the new area farther to the east which sought a more centrally located school building geographically, is expected to end the struggle between the two groups.

2nd Annual Sanctioned Speed Boat Regatta Set For July 9 at Mineola

Termed "the Indianapolis" of speedboat racing, the second annual sanctioned regatta of the Chain O' Lakes Boat club will be held Sunday afternoon, July 9, at the Mineola hotel on Fox Lake.

The first Chain O' Lakes regatta held last July, attracted some of the most outstanding boats and drivers last year, many of them world-record holders, and a great many drivers from all parts of the United States have indicated that they will be on hand on July 9 to vie for the purse and points in the national standings.

Two boats which were allowed to use the designation U. S. 1, as national champions will be on hand again this season, namely Sherman Critchfield of Lakeland, Fla., with his E boat, El, and Sid Street with his championship 263 cu. in. hydroplane, Zip, designated Fl. Many other outstanding drivers have already made entry into the race.

Plans include placing the pits at Korpan's Landing, located just north of the Mineola hotel. Parking facilities will be under the supervision of the Fox Lake Fire Department and the Fox Lake American Legion. Both organizations are cooperating with the Boat Club in staging the national race.

Ernest Rider of Argyle farm, east of Antioch, returned home from Springfield, Ill., after having attended the annual business meeting of the Illinois Milking Shorthorn Society as the representative of Mrs. W. P. Tague and her herd of registered Milking Shorthorns.

She won this cup for having the highest producing three year old cow both in milk and in butterfat on official record in the State for the year. The cow, Gay Lavender, produced 11,182 lbs. of milk and 473.69 lbs. of butterfat.

Also, Mrs. Tague has the honor of the first herd in Illinois to have won a Gold award two years in succession since the awards have been given. Last year one of Mrs. Tague's four-year-olds, Gift Welcome Fashion, won the Gold cup for highest producer in the state at her age. This cow's record was 12,798 lbs. of milk and 456.71 lbs. of butterfat.

Following this reported case Ed Gresens, who served last year as Township chairman of the National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis, and recently appointed an Executive Director of the Lake County Chapter and Regional Campaign Director comprising Antioch, Lake Villa, Newport, and Grant Townships is setting up the program for the coming season.

Gresens said that he would contact the present chairman within the boundaries in the near future and establish the ground work necessary to conduct a successful campaign this season as it did in 1949.

He also said that up to June 1, should the emergency arise again there have been over 10,000 polio cases in U. S., an increase of about 2000 for the same period in 1949.

Advice to parents worried about Polio.

2. Try not to widen intimate contacts between your family and outsiders during epidemic periods.
3. Avoid exhausting activity and sudden chilling during an epidemic.

5. Watch your child carefully for the first signs of listlessness or fever, and vomiting.
6. Call your doctor, and secure his advice.
7. If polio strikes, consult your local chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis for financial aid, or your local chairman.

Village Appropriation Shows Slight Increase In Aggregate Over '49

More Money for Lighting, and Parks Anticipated By Trustees

Antioch's appropriation for the fiscal year will be $63,611, an increase of $2,142 over last year.

While there will be increases in some departments and decreases in others, the increase is mainly explained in a $1,000 additional expenditure on parks and $2,500 for street lighting.

While the law makes necessary an appropriation before an expenditure can be made, it does not necessarily mean that the expenditure has to be made.

The total for the general fund this year is set at $8,250 compared to $6,200 last year. The increase is accounted for mainly in a $200 raise in the treasurer's salary; $200 legal expenses in addition to attorney's salary; $200 for office equipment, and $100 extra for auditing and stationery and supplies; with $500 for heating and $350 more for insurance.

There is only an $8 difference in the fire department account and that is a reduction from $4,034 to $4,026.

Sewer and water is upped from $9,510 to $10,560 but only a lengthy explanation will suffice in this instance because of re-allocating of money under different listings. The explanation mainly is in the power for pumping.

An anticipated $3,500 for new equipment accounts for the increase from $11,000 to $14,500 in the streets and alleys fund.

A re-arrangement of duties and a reduction of persons on the payroll and less anticipated equipment is the briefest explanation of the reduction from $21,525 to $12,275 in the police department. The biggest item in the reduction is the $7,000 in new equipment. Two hundred and fifty dollars less will be spent for parking meter equipment.

Street lighting is increased from $2,000 to $4,500 indicating an attempt to improve lighting in the downtown area. The bonded indebtedness will be reduced by an additional $1,300 expenditure and $1,000 more will be spent on parks and playgrounds.

POLITICAL PARTIES TOO MUCH ALIKE

Early in May, Herbert Hoover, the only living ex-President, made a noteworthy speech to a group of 1800 editors and publishers. The world, he said, had drunk too deeply of the mixed drinks of three ghosts: "The shade of Karl Marx with his socialism, the shade of Mussolini with his dictated economy, the spook of Lord John Maynard Keynes with his . . . perpetual endowment for bureaucrats. And we have contributed an American ideology of give-away programs. It might be called the New Generosity. It is not yet a ghost."

Mr. Hoover did not turn thumbs down on all governmental welfare activities. Indeed, he said, "Security from the cradle to about 18 to 20 years of age, and from about 65 to the grave, has always been sacred to the American people. But, he went on, the group which is in between these extremes "can find its own security only in a free but tough system of risk and self-reliance. It can be destroyed by taxes and the four mixed drinks."

Then Mr. Hoover turned his attention to our two major political parties. He observed that in European nations there are multitudes of parties which create confusion and despair. If we are to avoid that, he said, our two parties must really become opposites. We should have, on the one hand, a staunchly conservative Republican Party, opposed, on the other, by a Democratic Party which tends to the left. Only under such a condition, he believes, would it be possible for the voters to make a clear-cut choice, and for the respective parties to really stand for something definite and unequivocal.

It is certainly evident that neither of the parties even faintly resembles a cohesive whole today. The Democrats are now the majority party, and the President, their leader, has a program of unprecedented scope for enlarging the functions of the government, for putting the government into business, for continued Federal spending on a huge scale, and for all-inclusive social security. At the same time, the Democrats have in the Senate the foremost advocate of government economy, Senator Byrd, and their majority is made possible by a Southern delegation which still holds the traditional states' rights doctrines, and which is almost 100 per cent opposed to the President on such great issues as the Administration's civil rights bill.

The situation is similarly confused within the Republican party. Its most effective leader is Senator Taft, a conservative who believes that ever-growing government is the greatest menace to the freedom of the people. Yet it also has a group of aggressive, "liberal" Senators, such as Alken and Morse and Smith, who are continually restive under the present leadership, and who go along with much of the Truman program.

It can be effectively argued that a great political party is big enough to contain men of widely varied views. However, at the present time, the vote doesn't have much choice. In the last Presidential election, for instance, Governors Dewey and Warren campaigned on a program which, in essence, was not basically different from Mr. Truman's. They offered the voters about the same things that Mr. Truman offered them, but said the Republicans could do it better. This attitude, as the results proved, was not convincing.

Mr. Hoover's idea is simply that the parties stand definitely for specific, opposed policies. Time will tell whether that goal is possible of achievement.

DEPORTMENT IN CONGRESS

By Don Robinson, in The American Press
If I visited Congress every day like a Washington correspondent does, I might become accustomed to the bad manners of our national representatives. But since I only get to Washington now and then, it is still very shocking to me to see our nation's leaders putting on a daily exhibit of outrageous deportment.

I use the word "deportment" because I imagine most of the thousands of daily visitors to Congress compare the House of Representatives with a classroom of mischievous schoolboys and visualize what would happen to Junior if he behaved in such deplorable fashion in his hometown public school.

In schools, those who talk, laugh and cavort while others are speaking can be sent to the principal's office, sent home, or expelled. But in the House of Representatives the speaker can only bang patiently with his gavel and ask and pray for order.

It may be excusable for Congressmen to seek some escape from listening to long-winded speeches by their conferees, but if they are bored or disinterested they have the right to leave the floor of the House. Certainly there is no excuse for grown-up men, when under constant surveillance by boys and girls from all over the nation, to act in such fashion that the Speaker has to bang for order a dozen times an hour.

I hope any editor who visits Washington will check the deportment of Congress and write about it when he gets home. Country editors are so well respected in Washington that they may be able to force order by long-distance editorials better than the Speaker can do it with his gavel.

SHORT STORY

On Business

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

WHEN DOUG PRINGLE signed a contract to illustrate stories for Midweek Fiction magazine at a figure that surpassed any amount he had earned in the rather uncertain past, he felt that he had reached a milestone in his career.

3-Minute Fiction

"Now," he declared to his wife, Aggie, "we can begin to have a few of the things we've been doing without for the past seven years."

"And the first thing we'll have," Aggie told him, "will be a nice little camp on Spur Lake where you can work amid surroundings that you love and where, accordingly, things will be easier for both of us."

"The camp," he told her gravely, "will come immediately after Mrs. Pringle has replenished her wardrobe."

It turned out that Aggie could have her new clothes and they could purchase the camp and not feel too extravagant. They went up to Spur Lake the following week and talked to a real estate agent. They had been there many times before. They knew just what they wanted for a camp site and where they wanted it. That afternoon the real estate agent made the easiest sale he'd transacted in years.

The Pringles sat down and made up a schedule of guests for weekends. They wanted to have company. This was the first time they had lived in a place big enough to hold guests conveniently. They were eager to share their possession.

And so two weeks later the first guests arrived. Doug and Aggie slept in the work room and everything was fine. All hands had a swell time. The guests departed in high enthusiasm. In fact, their enthusiasm apparently bubbled over, for in the middle of the following week some friends dropped in who had "heard so much about the cute little camp the Pringles had bought."

Aggie and Doug asked them to stay over night and they did.

The summer hadn't progressed very far when Doug decided they ought to turn the present workshop into another bedroom.

"I'll build a studio for myself down by the lake. It seems there are a lot of people who are just dying to see our cute little camp."

"Now," he declared to his wife, Aggie, "we can begin to have a few of the things we've been doing without for the past seven years."

Gosh! After all, I'm a working man."

It's fun having guests, though," Aggie said.

"Sure," Doug agreed.

So the Pringles built a studio for Doug, a rather attractive building that added to the general outlay. He moved into it with all his equipment—and the next week-end Aggie moved in with him.

In August the Hollands arrived. The Hollands were bodes. Steve Holland belonged to Doug's golf club. They were friends of some of the Pringles' friends.

HOWEVER, they arrived and Mrs. Holland spied the studio and wanted to look at it. Aggie smiled wearily. She was getting used to this sort of thing. She led them down to Doug's workshop and Mrs. Holland peeked inside.

"Why, there's no one there!" she exclaimed.

Aggie nodded. "Doug's away. On business."

The Hollands were disappointed at not being able to see the artist at work, but there was nothing they could do about it. They departed shortly after.

At dinner time Doug came home. He was in high spirits.

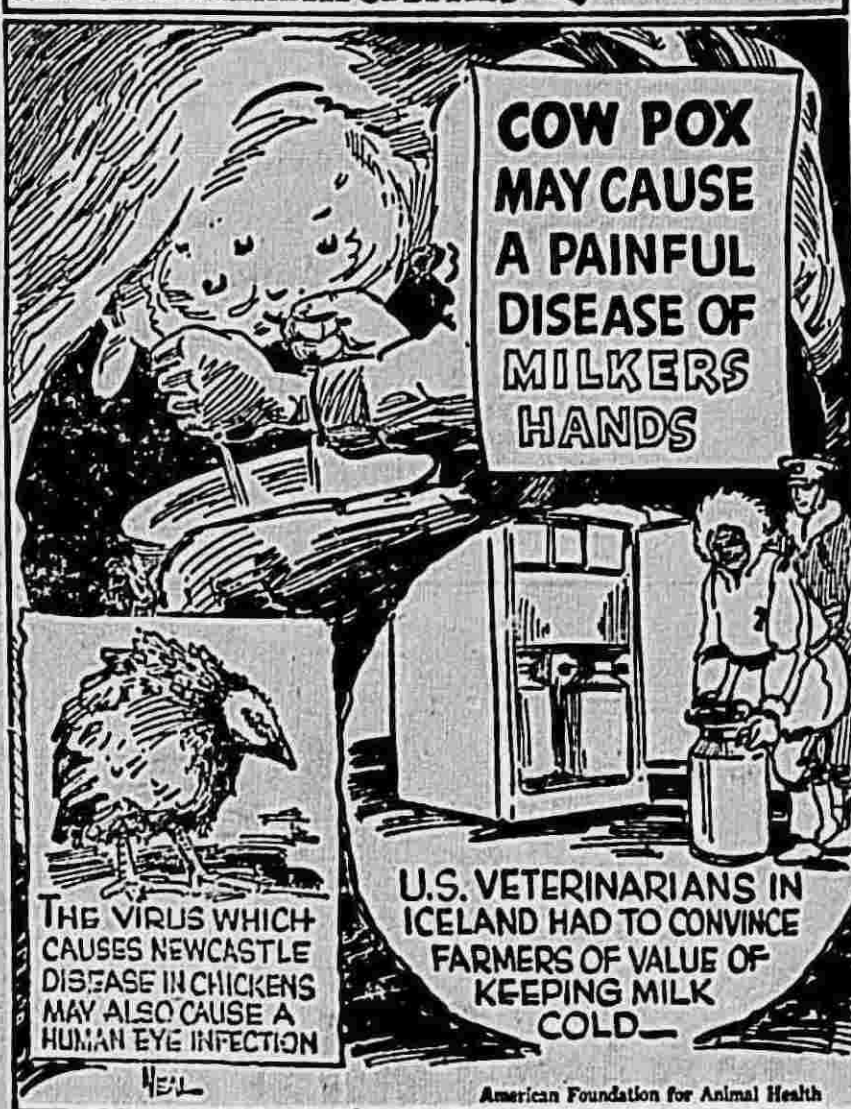

"I've found just the place I wanted. A room right in the heart of Goodwin's business district. Plenty of noise and dust—a place where a man can do a real day's work without being bothered."

Aggie smiled fondly.

"The Brants are arriving tomorrow."

"Swell!" said Doug. "Show them the works and tell them I'm away on business."

Adjust Lawn Mower

As soon as the temperature hits 80 degrees, mowers should be adjusted to cut lawns at 1½ to 2 inches. The longer grass provides shade for the roots, reduces evaporation of moisture and lowers soil temperatures making it easier for the lawn to survive the hot months.

Raw Onions

Raw onions, as you probably know, contain a flavorful, volatile oil which may or may not be retained after cooking. If you prefer mild-flavored onions, they should be cooked in a relatively large amount of boiling water in an open kettle. During this cooking process, considerable portions of the strong-flavored, volatile oil will pass off with the steam.

Women Medicos

Women graduates in medicine in the United States in 1949 totaled 612, or more than 12 per cent of all graduates compared with two and one-half per cent in 1910.

Ghost of Highworth Hd. Returns After Exorcism

BRISTOL, ENGLAND. — "Mrs. It," the ghost of 13 Highworth rd., is back again — with a playmate. Only recently the haunt was exorcised by a Church of England vicar in a religious rite to drive away spirits taken from early Christian records.

The peace of No. 13 was short-lived. Mr. and Mrs. William Baber, who lived in the house, say the ghost now does a nightly routine up and down the stairs with an unidentified partner. Sometimes it sounds like they're dancing, sometimes like wrestling.

The Baber theory is that the original ghost—which they named "Mrs. It"—is that of a woman who died in the house 18 years ago. "Mrs. It" first began prowling around the place in December.

The vicar, the Rev. Francis Maddock, went through a rite of exorcism after a month of nightly uproar at No. 13.

One night the Babers called in a spiritualist. All they found out is that "Mrs. It" (1) speaks a foreign language—possibly Russian—and (2) is an atrocious speller.

A ouija board was used to see if she had any message. What came out was "EEHFHMEV."

Try Dancing If Putting Child to Sleep Difficult

HOLLYWOOD, CALIF. — Gene Nelson, movie dancer, started dancing bedtime stories for his baby a year ago. He didn't know what he was getting into.

"Now I have to dance wake-up stories for him," Nelson said, "and also feeding stories, bath time stories and dressing stories. Not to mention putting him to bed with a dance, too."

This is a highly specialized type of child training and Nelson can't recommend it to every parent. But it's very successful for him.

"Other parents envy me," he said. "When I tell them I can get the little guy to sleep just by running through a rehearsal of the dance I have to do the next day."

It gradually took more and more of papa's pas de deux, however, to get baby to sleep. Then he started working in "Rosie O'Grady" and dancing all day.

"I was a pretty tired father by supper time," he said. "I began to wish I'd stuck to something conventional, like singing lullabies."

Capt. Cook's Voyage
Captain Cook, when he set sail in 1789 on his famous trip to the South Seas, laid great stress on cleanliness aboard his ship and among his crew. This was the reason, he said, that he was able to return three years later with an enviable record of having lost only one man from disease.

By twelve o'clock all the Brownies were ready to dig into their nose-bag lunch.

After lunch came a period of supervised play. The Brownies were divided into groups according to their age, so that Brownies from the different towns would meet and find new friends of their own age level.

The Assembly, representing a record membership of the organization, will be the largest in the history of the Association. Approximately 3300 delegates chosen by state and local associations—one delegate for a prescribed number of members—are expected in attendance. Delegates will be present from every state and from the territories of Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico to participate in the discussion of problems confronting the teaching profession and the educational welfare of children.

Libra'y Notes

Everyone, young and old, interested in guns and shooting, will welcome "The Practical Book of American Guns" by Captain John Craig. Written for the beginner as well as the experienced hunter, the book describes military rifles, all types of guns for target shooting, shotguns and pistols.

Captain Craig discusses the purchasing of guns and ammunition, how to care for your gun, and safety precautions. In addition to the many illustrations of all types of firearms, there is a table of ballistics.

"The Practical Book of American Guns" was given to the Antioch Township Library in memory of Ben R. Burke.

111 YOUNG PEOPLE ATTEND VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL

SHORT STORY

Perplexing Riddle

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

Lt. JEFF BOYNTON of the Union Army's Company E, second regiment, Massachusetts volunteers, wore a look of utter dejection as he entered headquarters tent, nodded wearily to Capt. Finn Lacey and slumped onto a stool. The captain stopped writing, leaned back in his chair.

"She wouldn't talk, eh?" Boynton answered. He stretched his long legs out in front of him and studied the worn toe of his boot.

"Maybe she's not a spy after all," Lacey hazarded.

Boynton's blue eyes flashed as he jerked up his head. "Yes, she is! I'm sure of it."

Lacey shrugged and gestured with his cigar. "If you're so sure, we'll hold a court-martial and—"

"No!" Boynton was on his feet. "Don't do that, sir. We haven't enough evidence to convict. It will mean she'll go free and we'll lose our one chance of stopping the leak. Information is getting through somehow. Alice Struthers is responsible. We must learn her methods."

"How?"

How? That was the question that had driven Lt. Boynton nearly to distraction, had caused him the loss of sleep and wearied his brain from thinking. A week ago, basing the act on the slimmest of reasons, he had had Alice Struthers arrested, to be held for questioning regarding the leakage of information to Confederate Gen. Johnson.

"You can't hold her forever without a trial, Boynton," the older man pointed out after another week had passed in which the lieutenant had failed completely in his efforts to unearth some grain of evidence. "Miss Struthers is popular among the officers. Some swear they have known her for years and will vouch for her loyalty to the Union."

"Which makes it all the more likely she would succeed as a spy. I happen to know that all of Miss Struthers' maternal ancestors came from Georgia. She herself spent a good part of her girlhood in Savannah."

Idly he fingered a package of letters he had brought in with him. "I'm convinced that in these letters the girl is sending out the information. How, I don't know. Certainly she is using no code. I have checked every letter a dozen times. Purposely I have permitted each to be mailed. Events immediately following convince me that some how those letters are the means of conveying the information."

CAPT. LACEY picked up the letters and read them briefly. They contained nothing to excite suspicion—mere messages of love and devotion to friends in the South.

Lacey suddenly pounded the table. "By George, Boynton, I believe I have it! Obviously something has to be done, and I'm more than half convinced—though heaven knows why—that your suspicions are well founded."

One day while going through the relics of long-ago battles, he came upon a letter.

"So?"

"So we'll deport her. Turn her over to the Confederate army. If that stops the leakage we'll know she was the guilty party, and there will no longer be danger of its continuance."

"And it will mean Alice Struthers' complete freedom."

Two days later prisoner Alice Struthers was turned over to Confederate Gen. Johnson under a flag of truce.

But it wasn't until after the war had ended that he found the answer to the riddle. One day while going through his relics of long ago battles he came upon a letter. It was one that Alice Struthers had written to her friends in the South, and which he had kept for a souvenir.

The paper was yellow, the ink faded. The postage stamp had dried and was hanging by a mere thread. As he looked at it, Lt. Boynton's eyes grew wide. For beneath the stamp were some closely written, finely penned words, obviously the cipher employed by Alice Struthers which he had tried so hard to locate.

Discovery

Tom Paine's Picture Found?

STATE COLLEGE, PA.—What he believes to be the only known painting of early American patriot Thomas Paine has been found by Dr. Harold E. Dickson, fine-arts professor at Penn State.

The portrait of the 18th century revolutionist - author was done by John Wesley Jarvis, an American painter. It was painted in 1805, a few years before Paine died.

While gathering material for a book on Jarvis, Dickson repeatedly ran across references to a documented portrait of Paine. But 10 years of searching down blind alleys failed to produce it.

In a republication review of his book, Dickson wrote, "If this picture should still exist... its discovery would be an important one."

Two Athens, Pa. women almost immediately informed the professor that they had the portrait. Dickson examined it and its certificate.

"This well-documented and unquestionably authentic portrait of Paine by Jarvis can be given rightful recognition as the last and at present the only located painting from life of one who played an effective role in the founding of our nation," he said.

Atomic Energy Set Provides New Toy For Young America

NEW YORK—Parents may at first feel a little apprehension about a potential toy from Santa for junior; but there is no cause for alarm.

It is true that there is a toy atomic energy set on the market—but junior can't make an A-bomb with it and it is described as a wholly peaceful plaything.

The kit—complete with a Geiger counter—that actually works—is just one of the thousands of glittering new playthings toymakers have cooked up for young America.

In spite of the atomic energy outfit, the accent for the most part is on the peaceful arts, the toymakers say.

But even so, the gun-toting cowboy and his range-riding regalia still holds forth as young America's No. 1 enthusiasm. Accordingly, there's a record turnout of new styles for the 1950 cowpoke, including a gold-plated pistol that releases puffs of real powder smoke when the trigger is pulled.

Farm toys come into their own with child-size tractors that'll cut a furrow or haul a wagon.

If junior wants to grow up to be a barber, there's a practice kit for him, too. It comes with clippers and a razor—that won't cut—and a shaving mug.

A new wrinkle for bubble-blowing drinking dolls is a rubber-tipped plastic straw. Just press the doll's tummy and it gobbles down a glass of water as neat as you please.

For the electric hobbyist there are refinements galore. One new thrill is a complete circus train with cages and animals, ready to be set up into a multi-ringed circus after the freight cars are unloaded.

The junior atomic laboratory stresses the peaceful side of nuclear research, the toymakers say. The set includes a Geiger counter that gives off visual and sound signals when uranium or other radioactive ore is near. There's also a fluorescent screen on which the young scientist can study atomic radio active material disintegrating.

The kit is stocked with radioactive minerals and instructions on the use of atomic energy for constructive needs.

Barber, Tree Enthusiast, Gives Customers Seedlings

BREVARD, N.C.—If you drop in to John Smith's barbershop you can get a shave or a haircut all right, but you may wind up planting trees.

John E. Ford, forestry specialist for the state college extension service, says that Smith is so interested in getting trees planted in Transylvania county that he has obtained tree seedling application blanks from the local farm agent. Smith distributes these blanks among customers in his shop.

Since he has been in business for about 40 years, Smith has a fairly good idea of which customers may have idle land for tree planting and thus doesn't waste many applications.

Bugs Bugging Around Bugs Disconcerts Entomologist

RICHMOND, VA.—The bugs here got into the state entomologist's bugs and sort of messed up the whole detail.

G. T. French discovered that sad fact when he dusted off some of his sample cases, showing the metamorphosis of the June bug.

The adult June bug's carcass was nibbled; the larva was badly chewed.

Groaned French; "It's those darned carpet beetles again."

Hard-Headed

Man tries Butting Car

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—Because he tried to butt a streetcar off the tracks, Robert Elliot, 57, received a 30-day sentence from a judge.

In district court, a policeman testified that Elliot stood in the middle of the car tracks and refused to let a trolley car go past. The motorman got out, pulled Elliot to the sidewalk and dashed back to start his trolley. But Elliot was back before him and standing on the tracks.

The police said that Elliot then butted his head into the trolley's headlight. The glass shattered and Elliot suffered a small cut.

A policeman ran up calling, "Why don't you move?"

"Let him go around me!" Elliot shouted defiantly.

The defendant told Judge Harvey Neelen he was "willing to take 30 days."

Judge Neelen said he was thinking in terms of, say, 90 days.

"But spring is approaching, your honor," Elliot protested. "Think of it, the birds, the bees..."

Judge Neelen agreed to change the charge from drunk and disorderly conduct to vagrancy.

"Thirty days," the judge said. "But why did you do it?"

"It was fun," Elliot replied.

Federal Agriculture Department Urges Use Of 'Iodized' Salt

WASHINGTON.—Many people think of iodine as a brown liquid in the medicine chest rather than something that has to do with food or a food essential. Yet the body needs small but steady quantities of the stuff for normal growth and development.

The simplest, most practical and least expensive way to make sure that all people, especially young and growing children, get the iodine they need is to use iodized salt.

This is why the U.S. department of agriculture is cooperating with the U.S. public health service and physicians, nutritionists and other groups concerned with national health—in a campaign for general use of iodized salt. Homemakers are urged to look for the word "iodized" when buying salt at a grocery to make sure they are getting this small but important bit of health protection for their families.

Since only one part iodine in 10,000 parts salt is needed, iodized salt is no more expensive than salt without this nutrient. It seems that the major salt producers are willing to comply with the demand for it, so let's not overlook the chance.

As a little review, iodine is essential for healthy thyroid gland, which in turn affects general well-being of the body as well as growth. Iodine "hunger" is the cause of much fatigue among adolescents, the physicians say. Also, physicians have found that giving iodine to mothers have reduced miscarriages and aided mothers in having enough milk for their infants. The use of iodized salt in areas where goiter was prevalent has proved a most effective means of preventing this disease.

Now iodine is naturally present in the salt from the ocean and in many local salt deposits in the earth but, as with many refined foods, this iodine is lost in refining. Returning iodine to salt is similar to enriching flour to make up for the vitamins and minerals removed from the grain in milling.

Sheriff Keeps Jail Lighted With Cord From Own Pantry

HYDE PARK, VT.—Sheriff Kenneth Potter is a man of resource and ingenuity. The fact that the lights were on and the hot water heater running in the Lamolite county jail here recently proved that.

They were running only because Sheriff Potter strung an extension cord from his own pantry to the jail. And the four inmates had their baths and clean linen, too.

The power was turned off at the jail because bills were overdue. There were no lights, no hot water, so Sheriff Potter went to work to save the situation.

The sheriff charged that the entire condition came about because the state auditor was "trying to dictate to us."

In his turn, the auditor declared that ever since Potter installed an electric hot water heater about a year ago, the jail's electric bills had been climbing, and for several months had averaged $75.

Before the time of the new heater, he said, the jail's power bills averaged $18 a month. So, continued the auditor, he refused payment on two bills and the power company discontinued service.

The sheriff said that because of the extension cord the electric light bills would now be in his name. Will he pay them?

"I will pay up," he says, "and I figure they've had a reasonable time to iron this out."

And what if it isn't ironed out? After a pause, Sheriff Potter said: "I shall just pull the plug and the jail will be in total darkness."

American Sailors Vocal in Protest Against New Garb

NORFOLK, VA.—The sailors of Uncle Sam's navy have told the big brass to "belay that new uniform."

The gobs were anything but unified on the question of the new regulation garb for enlisted personnel. It provided more scuttie-butt (navy for "gossip") than anything that has happened since the grounding of the "Big Mo."

Many of the sailors voiced salty disagreement with an order for roomier garb, complete with zipper to replace the customary 13-button trousers. Pockets, too, would be provided in the new uniforms.

D. R. Ferla, steward, third class from the Philippines, mourned the passing of the pants with 13 buttons representing the 13 colonies.

"Every part of our uniform stands for something," Ferla said. "If they change it, they will take away some meaning that has been with the navy for 200 years."

An Atlantic fleet headquarters spokesman said privately that in a recent poll aboard the cruiser Columbus not a single man favored the new blues.

"The new jumper looks like a sack," said Apprentice Seaman Jack R. Cunningham, 19, of Ash-tabula, Ohio, who serves aboard the minesweeper Peregrine. "I don't like the pockets in the pants. It looks too much like a civilian outfit. I enlisted to be a sailor and I want to look like one."

Seaman first class, Bobby J. Davis, 19, of Athens, Ala., predicted that a sailor wouldn't have a girl in any port.

"If they're going to give us civilian clothes, they ought to take away our ID (identification) and liberty cards, too," Davis said. "We won't need them."

Davis is the ship's barber aboard the John Weeks. He broke his arm and picked up opinion on the new uniform in the hospital ward room.

"None of them like it," he said.

Duke, Finding It Costly To Live, Must Sell Land

LONDON, ENGLAND.—A large piece of Arundel, Sussex, must go under the auctioneer's hammer because the landlord, the duke of Norfolk was finding the tax burden "too heavy."

Included in the property to be sold were eight Georgian houses, borough secretary's office, the Westminster bank, county council baby clinic and public library and the fire station.

There were also the offices of the Southdown bus company, a petrol filling station, a jeweler's, a stationer's, a sweet shop, a wireless shop, a corn store, a printing shop, a butcher's, a baker's, and a house the council has requisitioned for flats.

Among a number of tearooms up for sale will be Ye Olde Dairy and Honeybuns Guest-house.

This is the fourth sale of Arundel property since 1947 by the duke, whose castle overlooks the ancient Highstreet in which 19 of the properties stand.

At the first sale he told his tenants that he was obligated to sell "on account of the heavy burden of present taxation."

A member of the firm of Newland, Tompkins & Naylor, who were handling the sale, said: "The duke has felt it necessary to make further sales owing to the pressure of taxation. He just can't afford to live."

Longtime King of Hoboes Stripped of His Laurels

SAN FRANCISCO.—Jeff Davis, King of the Hoboes, has been stripped of his "credentials."

"My feet's just tied with all that stuff gone," Jeff complained.

He listed these losses: Some 350 honorary cards, including thumb-smudged testimony of his long reign over America's knights of the road; assorted photographs and a railroad spike, which he described as golden.

Jeff said they were in a light leather briefcase which disappeared when he was dining. He said that whoever filched the briefcase could keep the "golden spike" if he would return the credentials.

"When I go 'round the country," said the 67-year-old hobo, "they won't even know it's old Jeff 'less I have them papers."

Workmen Find Pocket Watch Lost More Than 50 Years

JOHNSTON, PA.—You can't keep a good watch down, especially the large, gold and engraved timekeepers that were treasured by the fashionable back before the turn of the century.

George Varner of Johnstown was given a gold pocket watch in 1892, a birthday gift from his father and engraved with his name. A few years later, the watch was lost.

Varner, later moved to Los Angeles and died in 1937, but before he died he relayed his confidence in the watch to his two sons, Clarence and Frank.

"It will turn up some time," he told them. And turn up it did. Workmen found it while clearing land at Grandview cemetery in the Johnstown district.

Wrestling Gets Needed Impetus Through Video

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—To the joy of all true lovers of the dramatic arts, wrestling is—once again—on the road back.

With an assist from television, the ancient pastime is kicking its way out of the small clubs which have encoffined it hereabouts for several years and is heading for the massive arenas, where the seats extend back even beyond the smell of arnica and the cash registers tinkle merrily.

In addition, the miraculous TV has made it possible for a huge unseen audience to appreciate the endeavors from safe places, where it runs no risk of being struck by stray fragments of wrestlers.

Come wrestling night, it is possible—in fact, almost inevitable—for the mama, Willie, Hedwig, Franz and Gustav, none of whom know the difference between a hammer-lock and a stack of oats, to sit before the screen and enjoy the writhings of the athletes, many of whom, it is whispered, don't know the difference either.

Once Muscle Men

This, as wrestling goes, is progress. Back at the turn of the century, when silly people thought the atom could not be split, wrestlers were statuesque men of mighty muscle and ponderous grips. They could, and did, wrestle for five or six hours without a fall.

As an example of what went on in those days, there was the match between Hackenschmidt, (the Russian Lion), the world champion, and Frank Gotch, an American athlete whose pet hold was to grab his opponent's foot painfully and braid his toes.

The two met Apr. 3, 1908, and pulled and tugged for 45 minutes before either man hit the floor. Then Gotch was thrown to the canvas, but bounced up before Hackenschmidt could follow his advantage. After an hour and 45 minutes, the crowd started yelling for more action. It was only after two hours that Hackenschmidt, panting and exhausted, announced he had surrendered the title.

Cue from Hamlet

The exhibit was a little more lively than looking at the Goethe and Schiller monument, but not as much fun as watching a woman run for a streetcar.

It is said that modern wrestling got its start one foggy night when a wrestling promoter wandered in to a production of "Hamlet," thinking it was a burlesque house. He discovered to his amazement that people paid good money to see the thing, even though they knew the actors had been rehearsed and had a pretty fair idea of how the duel scene was coming out.

Calves

Cold, damp weather is harder on calves than cold, dry weather.

Door Construction
A bolt or lock on any door should be so constructed that the door may be unlocked from the outside. Doors which give access to closets or other spaces should have handles on both sides. Doors between connecting rooms should be of single section and of a type that can be anchored.

Early Shoe Fashion
A peaked leather-soled shoe called the Cracowe was considered the height of fashion during the Middle Ages. Its point was so long that a chain tied around the knee held up the toe.

Those Who Seek Pirate Treasure Rated as Chumps

WASHINGTON. — This may be throwing a lot of cold water on a lot of heated interest in buried treasure—but according to experts and the record, anyone who goes hunting for pirate gold puts himself in the chump category.

That's the word from Lt. Cmdr. K. D. Ian Murray, formerly of the British merchant marine. He says he has been checking up on pirate lore ever since he first read "Treasure Island."

Murray said that it is quite true that pirate gold exists by the bushel for those lucky enough to find it.

Island Treasure Sites

On the island of Trinidad, for instance, he is pretty sure some 30 million dollars is stacked away. He is pretty sure, too, that plenty is buried on Cocos Island, off Central America.

Furthermore, he says, records are fairly complete of ships that have gone down stuffed to the deck with treasure. But this stuff is almost impossible to find. If it is in water, it is now far below the ocean's bottom. If it is on land, the very terrain may have changed so much that even the maps—if they still exist—no longer are any good.

Murray thinks piracy was a pretty good business, back in its day. There have been pirates almost from the time of the first ship. And pirates still exist off the China coast.

The old-time pirate had a strict code, according to Murray, and life wasn't all yo ho ho and a bottle of rum.

One bluenosed pirate, a Capt. Roberts, allowed no wine, women or assorted wickedness. And if another ship was captured, Capt. Roberts turned loose all who could give any one of the Ten Commandments.

Murray points out one drawback to modern treasure hunting: There have been no major developments in the science since the invention of the diving bell and the diving suit.

Of modern inventions, he thinks only the mine detector has many possibilities.

The commander seems to be doing all right. True, on his rambling, he has managed to pick up only a few pieces of pirate gold. But he has been acting as technical adviser on motion pictures of the sea, especially those with a piratical twist.

There is more than one way to skin a cat—and more than one way to get at buried treasure. He didn't say how much he thought was buried in Hollywood.

Wake Island Is Waste Dead Men, Ships, Hope

WAKE ISLAND.—If ghosts bother you, stay away from Wake, for this is an island of dead men and dead ships, of shattered hopes and futile ambitions. Japan's dream of an empire ebbed on its coral shores.

At least 200 Americans were killed defending this lonely Pacific atoll, 98 of them machine gunned by a Japanese execution squad.

More than 3,000 Japanese died here—1,242 of starvation.

Somewhere on Wake, still un-found, is the mass grave of 42 Americans who were buried during the night of Dec. 11, 1941, casualties of the first four days of war.

Dry skulls and bleached bones are scattered under the scrubby green bushes and along the shores of the three square mile island. Unopened brown saki bottles headstone the graves of the otherwise unmarked Japanese dead.

Luxurious transpacific planes settle on runways bordered with the wreckage of Japanese and American fighters who duelled for possession of once important acres now unprotected by a single American rifleman.

Bored passengers, many of them Japanese, sleepily disembark where screaming Japanese charged ashore that fateful night of Dec. 23, 1941, and overran the handful of defenders in a bitter seven hour battle.

Massive concrete blockhouses mushroom out of the coral everywhere, some American built, others Japanese. In them some 4,000 Japanese lived for two hellish years, roasting rats and drinking leaf soup while awaiting starvation and the American bombings.

Egyptian Cemetery Is Found Dating Back 5,000 Years

CAIRO, EGYPT.—A vast cemetery dating back to the old kingdom (3200-2630 B.C.) has been discovered by excavators at El Quatta in the western desert under direction of Abdul Hamada, curator of the Egyptian museum.

This high, rocky site, free from humidity, was eminently suitable for burials. Unfortunately, while the excavations were the first to be undertaken scientifically, many of the tombs had been plundered

War Vets Encounter Failure in Telephone Efforts at 'Peace'

NEW YORK.—A group of war veterans failed in a spectacular attempt to put President Harry Truman and Russian Premier Josef Stalin on the same party line. Their scheme didn't get any further than a long-distance telephone switchboard.

The Duncan-Paris American Legion post wanted the two heads of state to arrange a date to meet and make peace. The veterans got only silence from Moscow and a cold shoulder from the "little White House" where the President was staying.

It was golden silence, too, since the veterans had to pass the hat to get the $187.69 it cost to talk to cheery-voiced long distance operators and a traffic supervisor for an hour and 10 minutes.

They also got hooked for a transatlantic call from Paris, where three post members were cheering the attempted telephonic truce from the European sidelines.

The post rented a parlor in a hotel for $45. It spent $62.24 on telegrams and cables to Mr. Truman and Stalin asking if it was all right to place the call. None of the queries was answered.

"Another $77 was spent installing a telephone, a wire recorder and a loud-speaker system to amplify the conversation which never took place.

It took seven minutes to take the collection, and after that the only action was a series of reports from various telephone sources that no calls could be placed without the prior consent of the two heads of state. An attempt was then made to raise Key West on a pay phone. That failed also.

"They just don't want to talk to us," Saltz finally conceded.

Inspectors Find Supposed Beefsteak Was Horse Meat

HOUSTON, TEX. — Seizures of thousands of pounds of horse meat processed to resemble choice beef tenderloin has been announced in this city and Dallas.

Houston city veterinarian R. S. Martin said 3,000 pounds of a 5,000 pound horsemeat shipment to Houston had been sold to a restaurant here before city inspectors discovered it.

More than 4,000 pounds of horse meat, labeled beef tenderloin, was confiscated by city health officers and federal agents in Dallas.

At Fort Worth the city health department confiscated 3,600 pounds of meat but declined to label it horse meat. "We are not sure what it is," said the city health director, W. V. Bradshaw.

A great part of the horse meat shipments came from Kansas City and a federal investigation was begun there.

Shades of the Sheikh! Arabs Tabbed Mashers

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—You should not talk to strange women here unless the women speak first, District Judge Harvey L. Neelen advised two Arab students in the district court. The students were charged with disorderly conduct on complaint of two 19-year-old girls who testified that the men invited them for a ride in an automobile.

The students were Jacob Abidin, 23, and Salim Akrawi, 19, Abidin, whose home is in Jerusalem, Palestine, is studying electronics at the vocational school. Akrawi, whose home is in Iran, is a dentistry student at Marquette university.

The complainants said in court that they were accosted as they left a restaurant. They refused the ride offer and took a bus, complaining to the bus driver that the car was following the bus, they said.

Abidin said that he and Akrawi had spoken to the girls because they were laughing so loudly. He said that "we never saw girls laugh so loudly before." He and Akrawi didn't mean anything wrong, he said.

Judge Neelen called this defense the "silliest argument I ever heard in a mashing case." He offered his advice about Americans customs and ordered the two men to pay costs, amounting to $4.40 each.

Frost-Bitten Men Saved After Fall Into Lake

DAWSON CITY, YUKON TERRITORY. — Two frostbitten men told how they escaped death in the Yukon wastes after their truck plunged into a river and their clothes froze.

Edward J. Kimbel and Fred Harper, of Mayo, told hospital attendants how they scrambled out of their truck after it fell into the Stewart river and added:

"We started to run the four miles down river to a sawmill. There was a vicious wind blowing and it froze our heavy clothing until it felt as if we were packing heavy suits of armor."

The temperature was 40 below. Kimbel's frozen clothes became so heavy he had to crawl the last quarter mile to a logger's cabin, where a rescue squad found the two unconscious.

Naming Roses

Roses are generally named according to color, to honor some individual, place or historic event. Capistrano, a 1950 all-American award winner is named for the famous California mission. Sutter's Gold, another winner, commemorates the discovery of gold in California.

Makes Heat "Bounce" Off

By painting the upper half of the fuselages with a finish which reflects the sun's heat, the temperature inside passenger planes has been cut by as much as 10 to 15 degrees during airport stops.

Secret of Meringue

The secrets of a perfect meringue are whipping the egg whites and sugar to just the right stiffness, placing the meringue on a hot filling, and baking it at 425 degrees for four to four and one-half minutes.

Child Psychology

Much of a child's security and happiness is based on the love and understanding that exists between his parents. His success in establishing his own family will also be influenced by his parents' attitudes and behavior.

Andrew Jackson was the first President of the United States to ride on a railroad train. This event took place on June 6, 1833, on the Baltimore & Ohio between Elliott's Mills and Baltimore, Maryland, a distance of 13 miles.

Jamboree Bound—1950 Style

With 47,000 Boy Scouts preparing to converge on Valley Forge for their 40th anniversary jamboree, the scene above is typical of troop pre-campment activities throughout the nation. The Scouts here are part of a Central Michigan contingent 250 strong going to historic Valley Forge the modern way—in a fleet of 55 new cars provided for them by the Buick Motor Division at Flint. The caravan, the largest single auto cavalcade going to the jamboree, will travel the Pennsylvania Turnpike enroute and will return via Niagara Falls.

Death by Fire

More than 11,000 lives were lost in fires in the United States during the past year, the leading cause of which was carelessness in the use of matches and cigarette smoking.

One of the leading copper producing areas of the world is the Katanga district of the Belgian Congo and its extension into Northern Rhodesia.

Stimulate Grass Roots

When lawn grass is "cut longer" than the conventional $\frac{1}{4}$ to 1 inch length, growth of the root system is stimulated. The more vigorous the roots, the healthier the lawn.

WHY PAY AS MUCH

FOR THIS HEAD OF LETTUCE

AS FOR THIS HEAD?

YOU NEVER DO AT A&P! HERE'S WHY:

A small head of lettuce isn't worth as much as a big one... a wilted head as much as a crisp, fresh one. That's one for all under-sold, off-grade fruits and vegetables. So A&P never includes them in its regular produce displays... never sells them at its regular produce prices. Super checkers make sure of that! First of all, they inspect every shipment as it arrives and remove any items that aren't uniform in size and grade. Then... several times a day... they check the fruits and vegetables on the racks and weed out any that have become wilted or discolored. All these are promptly placed on a "Quick-Sale" table and sold at reduced prices. You pay full price only for produce that meets A&P's high standards. That means you always get full value when you shop in the Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Department of your A&P. Try it and see!
